N. W. J., Point Pleasant, W. Va.—I have a colt 0 months old that has become very poor. I have been feeding it all it can eat, but it seems to get poorer every day. I thought it had lice, but we could not find any. His eyes look pale and he is weak. When I weaned him he started to fall away. Now if you can tell what is wrong and advise treatment you will greatly oblige me.

Answer—From your description the colt is very likely suffering from an impoverished condition of the blood. Place the colt in a good warm stable and feed on different diet every day. Keep changing so that he does not get tired of any one feed Give one of the following powders in each feed: Ferri sulph, 20 grains ginzibut powdered, one dram. amix well and continue until he improves.

It affords me pleasure to assure you that after using Dr. C. I have not had them constantly and had to try others, and I have tried a good variety, but I have never had any to act so premptly, profusibly, and nicely as McLane's. I have used them myself, will, and chidnen, with the most gratifying results, and chidnen, with the most gratifying results. For chidnen, and happy effect, I would recommend them to one and to all. These pills do the work—do it promptly, do It well, and leave no lit effects behind. As a bile remover, as a liver corrector, as a foreruneer preparing the system for quinine, there is no pill or medicine equal to Dr. O. McLane's Celebrated Liver Fills. Limping Horses, Pittburgh Stockman.

Does your horse limp? Perhaps he has sprained his ankle. The reads are very rough now, and it is no wonder the horse makes a misstep and atumbles. If he limps place the hand first on one ankle and then on the other, and the heat will indicate which one is in trouble. When you put him up in the stable wet the affected limbs with cold water (which will induce perspiration quicker than warm water), and bandage the ankle and lower limb heavily with a piece of old blanket, carpet or bag. Centinue this for two or three nights, and all the soreness and consequent lameness will depart. The writer has treated his own driving horses that way with the best results. Pittsburgh Stockman. way with the best results.

Farmers in feeding horses.

Farmers in feeding horses give nearly twice as much hay as city people do, says a correspondent of the New York Tribune, and yet city horses are in the best condition for the road. My father was never satisfied unless hay was continually present in the manger. I am satisfied that this is a mistake, and that grain is cheaper than hay, and yet it is necessary to have hay or other coarse fodder to keep the horses in good health. A wealthy farmer here does not give his horses a particle of hay, he simply outs straw and mixes ground feed with it, and his horses are in excellent condition and do good service. Feeding Horses,

NOTES.

Colle troubles in horses may be avoided by paying attention to the condition of their bowels, and seeing that they are kept open and free from constipation. Fresh outbreaks of glanders are still ap-pearing from time time in various parts of the West. Still greater trouble from this fearful disease is not improbable.
